

Riverdale Healthcare Appoints Head of Clinical Advisory Board

London, UK – 7th October 2019. Ambitious dental group, Riverdale Healthcare, has announced the appointment of Raj Rattan MBE to head up its Clinical Advisory Board.

The appointment of Raj is a huge coup for the recently formed dental group which currently operates 14 practices in the North of England.

With over 30 years' experience in clinical practice, Raj is Dental Director at Dental Protection, and previously Strategic Associate Dean at the London Deanery.

In 2008, Raj was appointed MBE in the Queen's New Year's Honours List for services to dentistry and he is former policy adviser to the Department of Health.

Riverdale Healthcare's Chairman and CEO, Mark Seekings said, "We are thrilled that Raj is joining the team on our exciting journey. He is a highly respected clinician with a wealth of knowledge to support our teams as we grow the company."

Raj added, "I am delighted to join the team at Riverdale Healthcare. Their vision for delivering high quality, ethical dental care whilst providing patients with the very best experience resonated with my personal values.

I am particularly looking forward to supporting our dental colleagues to ensure they are well appointed to deliver high standards of clinical care to patients in a safe and happy environment."

Riverdale Healthcare's ambition is to grow through the acquisition of dental practices which share their passion for people and high-quality, ethical dental care. Their focus is the personal touch, creating friendly, harmonious teams who support each other and who ultimately provide their patients with the best experience.

Riverdale Healthcare are actively seeking like-minded dental practices to join the group. Chief Investment Officer, Chris Aylward, has a passion for acquisitions specialising in healthcare, and understands the unique aspects of dealing with the sale of a dental practice.
